

In-Home Consultations

While visiting Liptons' well appointed store facility, with its home-like theatre showrooms and chatting with one of our consultants is a great way to get ideas, there is often no substitute for actually being in the home environment itself during the consultation.

Liptons' experienced sales consultants welcome the opportunity to visit with potential clients directly in their homes, businesses or commercial locations. By seeing the location firsthand, your Liptons sales consultant will be able to suggest options and possibilities, and at the same time suggest pitfalls to avoid. Take advantage of our experience and knowledge of the wide array of equipment and custom installation options. The in-home consultation also allows for accurate estimates of both materials, and labour to be made in advance of the work commencing.

Just call or email today to arrange your initial personalized consultation...or just chat about your upcoming project.
